

You Stole Tomorrow
Jaycee B

Brother you left
And you forgot to say goodbye,
But I know you regret it
And you wish I wouldn't cry.

You would wipe my tears
And tell me it's alright.
I know you loved me,
But the world isn't as bright

How does it keep spinning?
When you stop being there?
How does life go on?
How do some not care?

They should know what the world lost,
They should feel our pain,
But they missed out on so much more
And all the things we gained.

I guess I'm pretty lucky
I was a part of your short time.
I didn't know a moment
Could stop me on a dime.

I wish I could feel you
And knew If you were here
I wish I could sense you
And know if you were near.

I wish I could hear you
And listen to your voice.
The only thing that would fix this
Is if you had made a different choice.

Brother I understand,
But I will also wonder why
You had your whole life ahead of you,
You were too young to die.

But I guess you had to leave us
And get back to your home,
Where you can be in heaven's arms
And never feel alone. ❤️
