

Grief and Time

People tend to believe that grief shrinks over time

What really happens is that we grow around our grief